THE JUDICIAL TICKET.

[Lancaster Eagle.]
The Democrats of this judicial subdivision, composed of the counties of Fairfield, Hocking and Perry, have placed in the field their candidates for consideration of the electors this fall.

While the convention at Logan was not without contest, the encounter between the candidates was friendly and good natured, and assurance was given from the three counties, that the nominees would receive the enthusiastic and earnest support of the Democracy of this district.

Judge Slough received the nomination for the full term and his contestant for the honor, Judge Rutter, gracefully submits, as he has always done in the past, to the will of the majority.

It was an enthusiastic convention and attended by all elements that go to make up a great party. Especially was this noticeable in the Fairfield delegation, where the old wheel horse of Democracy who bear the scars of many political battles, sat side by side with the younger element, who represented for the first time their constituents at a convention.

Judge Slough has represented this district on the bench for about eight years, and during this time he has tried to serve the people according to the best dictates of his conscience and what he thought to be right and proper. He is well versed in law and his opinion in matters where intricate legal questions were involved have been accepted without comment from the highest judicial authorities.

Fairfield county, and in fact the whole district over which his jurisdiction extends, never enjoyed a more peaceful reign than at the present time. Crime is almost unknown, and the people live in harmony and unity, respecting the law, and obeying faithfully every provision that is required for the maintenance of a government in which the people favor justice and right.

The honorable position of Judge of the Common Pleas Court is a most peculiar and trying one. The presiding officer is brought more closely in contact with the people, and the various questions on which he is obliged to render judgement is more keenly observed and commented upon than the final decision from the higher tribunal.

Judge Slough's associate on the ticket, Hon. O. W. H. Wright, is comparatively a young man but old in the practice of his profession and ripe in the years of experience. He is a man of clear judgment and is probably blessed with a more extensive acquaintance than any other man in the district. For a number of years he has battled for the cause of Democracy, and his eloquence has been heard in political campaigns in every school district in the three counties.

This will be a campaign in which the Republicans flushed with victory for several years will make an extraordinary effort to elect one if not both of the judicial candidates. Let the Democrats be faithful and uphold and support the candidates which the majority at the convention have selected and victory will certainly be ours.

High Honor Accorded to a Citizen of Somerset.

[Somerset Press.]
The Democratic convention for the eleventh congressional district, composed of Athens, Hocking, Meigs, Perry, Ross and Vinton counties met at Athens on Thursday of last week to nominate a candidate for congress.

There was a large and enthusiastic attendance and the nomination, a most unexpected one, it being Wm. E. Finck, jr., of Somerset, who was nominated by a unanimous vote, there being no other names presented.

The honor was entirely unlooked for by Mr. Finck, and he has not yet decided whether to accept the nomination or not. While perfectly competent to fill the position, and able to make a gallant fight, there are matters of a personal nature to be taken into consideration, and he will do nothing hastily. Our people regard of political views, congratulate Mr. Finck on the honor that has been conferred upon him, more especially as it was unsought and unlooked for. It merely shows the regard in which he is held by all who know him.

From Maine to Texas.

Notlin' now on earth kin vex us; Silver wins from Maine to Texas; All the boys air goin' gunnin'; Goldbugs climin' trees or runnin'; But the trees air all on fire, An' they jest can't climb no higher! An' the roads are hard to travel—Full of silver rocks and gravel! Goldbugs reapin' what he's sowin'—Don't know where on earth he's goin'! But there ain't a thing kin vex us—Silver wins from Maine to Texas.

THE PRESIDENTIAL CAMPAIGN FOR 1896.

Campaign Sentinel!

The Presidential Campaign this year will be a life and death struggle between the Democrat and Republican parties; between the people on one side and money power on the other. Between equal right and equal taxation and protection to trusts and special legislation to classes.

The SENTINEL will be in this war as it has been every year of its more than half a century existence, fighting as best it can the battle of Democracy. As an aid to the work to be done, and in order to help promote the cause of the people, we will issue a CAMPAIGN SENTINEL, beginning with the issue of July 2nd, at the nominal price of

TEN CENTS TEN WEEKS

And closing with the week after the election. The price is not the cost of the blank paper, and is furnished the people gratuitously, as a part of our contribution to the party cause. The Campaign Sentinel will contain the interesting, current news of the day, local and general. Matters of special importance will receive special attention and be given in detail. The local interests of town and county will be advocated and our best efforts used to advance every enterprise looking to the public good. The literary selections will be prepared with care, and will be the best productions of the foremost writers of the age.

ADVERTISING

The advertising columns will be an exponent of Logan business, and no advertisement will appear that has a relation in any possible way to a business that is not honest, and is not fair. A discreet country correspondent will be secured, when possible, at every post office, and no neighborhood scandal, nor idle gossip, will appear in the paper. A column or more of war reminiscences will appear each week, written by old soldiers, and special preference will be given to contributions of our county and of our home regiments.

The Politics of The Sentinel!

Will be Democratic, accepting the platforms of the State and National Conventions as the doctrine of the party, and a declaration of the issues upon which the battle will be fought, and won. The Sentinel will support the Ticket, National, State, District and County, and give the best efforts possible to the election of every man, with preference for none, and helping most if it can the candidates who may require the most help and against whom the hardest fight may be made. The regular yearly rates for the Sentinel is One Dollar in Advance.

St. Louis Convention.

Mc KINLEY NOMINATED ON THE FIRST BALLOT.

HOBART OF NEW JERSEY FOR VICE PRESIDENT.

The Single Gold Standard the Platform of the Party.

Senator Teller and his Associates Secede from the Convention.

The St. Louis convention met on Monday, June 16, was called to order at 12:20 by Carter, chairman of the National Committee, who announced, as choice of the committee, Fairbanks of Indiana as temporary chairman. His speech was the key note of the convention, Gold Money, Protective Policy. The various committees were then announced. The committee on credentials, decided all the contested seats in favor of the McKinley delegates.

Foraker was made chairman of the committee on resolutions. Mark Hanna, of Cleveland was the leader of the McKinley forces, and Platt of New York, the leader of the opposition. From the opening of the convention, McKinley was decidedly the popular choice. His opposition could not center upon any single strong candidate.

Foraker favored a straddle on the finance plank but was overruled by the committee.

THE PLATFORM.
The convention met on Wednesday at 10:30, when the committee on resolutions, reported the platform. After the usual denunciation of the Democratic party, and the glorification of the Republican party for its past record, the resolutions declare in favor of a protective tariff, reciprocity, a duty on sugar, a subsidy for the American merchant marine; promises more liberal pensions, express sympathy with the Americans and Cubans, persists against immigrants who can not read and write, denounces lynchings, approves Civil Service, favors the admission of all the territories, expresses sympathy with "all the wise temperance movements," favors the admission of woman "the wide spheres of usefulness" and adopts a platform of single gold standard, in the language as follows:

THE FINANCIAL PLANK.
"The Republican party is unreservedly for sound money. It caused the enactment of the law providing for the resumption of specie payments in 1870; since then every dollar has been as good as gold.
"We are unalterably opposed to any measure calculated to debase our currency or impair the credit of our country. We are therefore opposed to the free coinage of silver except by international agreement with the leading commercial nations of the world, which we pledge ourselves to promote, and until such agreement can be obtained, the existing gold standard must be preserved. All our silver and paper currency must be maintained at parity with gold, and we favor all measures designed to maintain inviolably the obligations of the United States and all our money, whether coin or paper, at the present standard of the most enlightened nations of the earth."

THE SILVER SENATORS REVOLT.
Senator Teller offered the following minority report:
"The Republican party favors the use of both gold and silver as equal standard money and pledges its power to secure the free, unrestricted and independent coinage of gold and silver at our mints at the ratio of 16 parts of silver to one of gold."

Senator Foraker moved to lay the substitute proposed by Teller on the table, demanding a vote without debate.
The vote stood, yes 618; No 1054.
The majority report was then adopted by a vote of, yes 8104; No, 1104.

Senator Teller was given a hearing. He protested against the action of the convention, and declared that he and his associates, pledged to free silver, could no longer remain in the convention, nor in the Republican party. The speech and the withdrawal of Teller and the silver men, is described as being one of the most dramatic events that ever occurred in a political convention. Cheers and hisses commingled, men shouted and the band played, and confusion for half an hour ensued.

After the silver men had gone out of the hall, nominations for president was ordered, the states being called in alphabetical order.
Baldwin nominated Allison of Iowa; Senator Lodge nominated Morton of New York; Hastings nominated Quay of Pennsylvania, and Foraker nominated McKinley of Ohio.

When the nomination of McKinley was made, the convention went wild, and for half of an hour no business was transacted.
THE VOTE.
The Total votes cast on the first ballot was 922.
The vote on candidates as follows:
McKinley 6614
Morton 58
Allison 354
Reed 844
Quay 614
Cameron 1
Blank 4
The announcement of the McKinley vote precipitated a great outbreak of cheers and yells, and the usual concomitant of such tumult at a presidential convention with flags and plumes diversified with handkerchiefs, umbrellas and everything which could be tortured in motion in the hands of the howling thousands.
The band broke out with 'America' but had very little chance against the screaming of the crowd. Chairman Thurston pinned a McKinley plume across his breast, and with one hand on his desk and the other pointing toward the roof, in the attitude of Ajax defying the lightning, confronted his roaring, howling charge. Among the other flags which were flaunted where a number of small blue bordered squares of silk, on the white central oval which appeared in large letters the word 'McKinley.' One gentleman in the body of the hall was boosted up by his neighbors into a conspicuous position, where he displayed on his head shaper in the form of a McKinley rooster. The sinking sun at a moment of the wildest section of outbreak alone in through the open western windows and illuminated with its golden flood of color the forest of plumes and standards which rose above the heads of the mass of shouting human beings. Various parties in the hall produced copies of the old-time melodeon and gigantic rattles, which augmented the great volume of sound which swept through the hall.
During the uproar someone on the platform elevated a flagstaff. Perched upon the spear was the traditional Napoleonic hat and the appearance of this McKinley emblem stimulated the crowd to a louder exhibition of lung strength. At 5:45, while a salute of 100 guns from a piece of artillery outside the convention was still underlining the yells of the crowd, Chairman Thurston by a determined effort of voice and gavel brought the convention to order and announced the remainder of the ballots as given above.

HOBART FOR VICE PRESIDENT.
Fort, of New York, nominated Hobart, of New Jersey.
Allen of Rhode Island, nominated Gov. Chas. Lippett; Randolph of Tennessee, nominated Henry Clay Evans of Tennessee; Bailey of Virginia nominated Gen. Jas. A. Walker of Virginia, an ex-Confederate.
The adherents of Mr. Evans were very enthusiastic and loudly cheered every vote announced for him. When Pennsylvania cast her 64 votes for Hobart his nomination was gained and delegates began to leave.
Pending the announcement of the vote, a resolution was adopted making Chairman Thurston chairman of the committee to inform the presidential nominee of his selection and Temporary Chairman Fairbanks head of the committee to wait on the vice president for the same purpose. A resolution was adopted thanking the city of St. Louis for fulfilling all its promises in the entertainment of the convention. Before the announcement of the vote had been made there was a rush from the hall. The nomination of Hobart was made unanimous.

Condensed Testimony.

Chas. B. Hood, broker and manufacturer's agent, Columbus, Ohio, certifies that Dr. King's New Discovery has no equal as a cough remedy. J. D. Brown, proprietor of the St. James Hotel, Ft. Wayne, Ind., testifies that he was cured of a cough of two years standing, caused by La Grippe, by Dr. King's New Discovery. B. F. Merrill, Baldwinville, Mass., says that he has used and recommended it and never knew it to fail and would rather have it than any doctor, because it always cures. Mrs. Heming of 222 E. 25th St. Chicago, always keeps it at hand and has no fear of croup, because it instantly relieves. Free trial bottles at F. Harrington's drug store.

The Unlucky Thirteen.

An exchange says that on the American quarter dollar there are thirteen stars, thirteen letters in the scroll held in the eagle's beak, thirteen marginal feathers in each wing, thirteen tail feathers, thirteen arrow heads and thirteen letters in the words quarter dollar. And still it isn't unlucky to have lots of them. The bad luck is in not having dollars instead of quarter dollars.
